This workshop will explore the background, objectives and methodology of the Global Green Finance Index.

Green finance is no longer seen as a fringe activity, but a profitable and desirable activity, which drives financial markets, serves society and enhances the status of financial centres which demonstrate expertise.

The Global Green Finance Index (GGFI) is an initiative designed to measure how financial centres are responding to this challenge. We intend that enabling centres to compare their performance with their peers will improve policy makers' understanding of the drivers of green growth, and assist them in shaping the financial system to support sustainability in the economy and society.

The objective of the workshop is to engage into a dialogue with market practitioners to refine the questionnaire, and explore how best the index could meet their needs. We are looking forward to seeing you there!
